- Detailed report for program 1.
“Construction of Real Numbers”(26/02/2019)

The real number system is introduced to the UG level students as , “ axiomatically “. But that can be deduced from more primitive concepts viz. Peano’s axioms, that has never been taught in regular courses. Therefore, this departmental seminar was planned to provide students with this fundamental idea.

Objectives of the seminar

1. Educational Outreach: To educate students about basic understanding of real numbers and introduce all eight equivalent properties.
2. Research Promotion: To promote research interest among students and scholars in the field of mathematics with clear understandings of real numbers
- 3 Networking and Collaboration: To foster collaborations among students, researchers, and professionals interested in cultural studies, film making

Benefits to Students

1.Enhanced Knowledge: Students gained a deeper understanding on Foundational mathematics. Although it isn't covered in their syllabus, students won't be able to understand why they need to use such material when performing mathematical calculations if they don't understand it and its purpose.

3.Skill Development: this seminar helped students develop skills in, Foundational mathematics.

4. Networking Opportunities: Participants had the chance to network with experts and peers, fostering potential collaborations and mentorship opportunities.
5. Research Inspiration: The seminar inspired students to pursue further research in Foundational mathematics

Concept Note

The notion of the Indian nation into nation primarily evoked the image of "Mother" but after independence as the so called mother got bifurcated into two separate entities it became the need of the hour to talk about the pluralisation of "Father" who could disprove the dichotomous, impoverished notion of a newly independent country. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi became synonymous in the idea of the Indian nation, popularly referred to as the "Mahatma" or "Bapu". Many world leaders credit Gandhi as one of the most significant inspiration to them in terms of the ideas of peace, religious tolerance, leadership, amelioration of the downtrodden. Gandhi belongs to the rare category of personalities who advocate his own ideas by practicing applying them in himself. His ideas of peace, satyagraha, primary education, experiment in celibacy, non-violence and wearing khadi cloth have emerged as popular means of "Gandhigami". His policies like hunger strike, passive political resistance are still used by the modern day protagonists of the world. In India in recent time Indian currency notes feature the autobiography of Gandhi in art form. However, gradual increase of the industries like religious intolerance, violence against women, and violence against communities who are recognised by the government as "downtrodden" provokes worry about the future of the unity, nation and state. Therefore, the need arises to academically examine Gandhian theory remaining in the postcolonial India. The question here arises whether to expand and understand the current social pathology through Gandhian lens or is it time for an alternative epistemology beyond the ones provided by Gandhian theory."

2. International Women's Day Celebration (narike pon bhagyo joy koribar keno nahi dibe adhikar) ((25/03/2022)

Sociology department has taken this initiative of doing gender socialization by celebrating international women's day in the month of march or April of the given year. The main purpose of organizing gender sensitization programme is to handle and respond to gender sensitive issues and provide an environment where men and women and other genders can work together with a sense of personal security and dignity. The department and college engross the awareness about gender issues and towards and creating an enabling environment of gender justice.

Objectives of the seminar

1. Educational Outreach: To make the young boys and girls' gender sensitive and create positive values that supports the girls and their rights.

To provide overall guidance to the peer group in integrating/mainstreaming gender in all activities of the Institution in the form of focused group discussions, debates, poster making competitions etc.

To provide an integrated and interdisciplinary approach to understand the social and cultural constructions of gender that shapes the experiences of women and men in society.

To generate the awareness in regard to equality in law, social system and democratic activities.

2.Research Promotion: To promote research interest among students and scholars in the field of sexual harassment, workplace ethics, difference between sex and gender

3 Networking and Collaboration: To foster collaborations among students, researchers, and professionals interested in cultural studies, film making

Benefits to Students

1.Enhanced Knowledge: □ To instil positive values so as to erase biases in the young developing minds to help them progress towards a fair and unbiased society. □ To create awareness regarding gender discrimination, violence against women, deprivation of women, rights of transgender persons and other issues through lectures, seminars, talks, workshops, debates, showing films and documentaries etc. and familiarize students with their constitutional rights and safeguards. □ To facilitate a gender-sensitive environment enabling members of the teaching and non-teaching staff to maximize their potential. □ To undertake policy initiatives for providing equal opportunities to staff and students. □ To create an environment in which the students and the staff jointly participate in college actions and activities with an open mind. □ To create a transparent environment of discussion, dialogue, tolerance and solution and work towards modification of behaviour by raising awareness of gender equality concerns. □ To deal with cases of sexual / psychological/emotional/physical harassment objectively and as much as is possible for an academic institution.

3.Skill Development: this seminar helped students develop skills in, Gender sensitization refers to the raising sensitization of gender equality concerns. It helps people in examining their personal attitudes and beliefs and questioning the realities of both sexes. Gender sensitization make people understand the difference between sex and gender, how gender is socially constructed and the stereotypes around gender roles It helps them determine which assumptions in matters of gender are valid and which are stereotyped. Need of gender sensitization is to create awareness among the working professionals about the importance of gender sensitivity in organization. Without being sensitive to the needs of a particular gender, an individual may refrain from understanding the opposite gender. Gender is Socially Learned behavior, based on social expectation from Men & Women. The women and children are most vulnerable group of this situation. And it's the undue pressure on Boys & Girls to live up to the established norms of Masculinity & femininity. Girls endure unwarranted social control, discrimination & domination. Boys discouraged from being emotional, gentle or fearful. Gender Sensitization gives a clear and precise view about Gender and help to understand that GENDER is not about "Women" it's about "People".

4. Networking Opportunities: Participants had the chance to network with experts and peers, fostering potential collaborations and mentorship opportunities.

5. Research Inspiration: students may do research on gender equality, women empowerment ,legal issues related to sexual harassment etc.

NSS Day

Objectives of the Debate Programme

This debate was organised to □ To establish good gender balance in decision-making processes in all areas of the college activities. □ To suggest measures for bridging the gender gap. □ To implement the human values regarding the third gender. □ To inculcate the awareness among the students about the equality of the gender.

The objective is not only the equality and empowerment of male and female but transgender also. It also aims to provide a harmonious and fertile environment for all students to excel physically, mentally, intellectually and emotionally upholding ethics and values. It is necessary to change their perspective about gender and create safe and secure environment where all three genders coexist harmoniously.

Report of ICPR Sponsored Periodical Lecture on “Morals and Values in Modern Indian Society”

Date: 14th and 18th February and 7th March, 2020

An ICPR (Indian Council of Philosophical Research) sponsored lecture series on “Morals and Values in Modern Indian Society” organized by the Department of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Government College. It was held on 14th and 18th February and 7th March, 2020. The convenor was Dr. Banani Barman, HOD of the Department of Philosophy and the organising secretary was Sucheta Mitra and treasurer was Dr. Supriya Samanta and Pritha Paul, Assistant professor of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Govt. College. This lecture series was inaugurated by Swapan Sarkar, the Officer-in-Charge of P. R. Thakur Government college. And the inaugural session was ornamented by the presence of distinguished philosopher from academia, faculties of different Colleges and Universities, research scholars and a large number of enthusiastic students of undergraduate programme of social sciences, humanities and Science.

In the first day on 14th February, 2020, the OIC of P. R. Thakur Govt. College, in his inaugural speech had nicely described the theme “Indian Values”. The inaugural session continued with a welcome speech by the coordinator of the program, Dr. Banani Barman. She had lucidly explained the main theme and the title of the first lecture “Revisiting Moral Values Embedded in Classical Indian Philosophy & Culture and Their Role in this Changing Society”. It was our immense pleasure to introduce Professor Sabita Samanta as the first speaker of our three-days program. She is the HOD of Department of Philosophy at West Bengal State University. She delivered her lecture on “Revisiting Moral Values Embedded in Classical Indian Philosophy & Culture and Their Role in this Changing Society”. She explained Indian thinkers recognized morality’s pervasiveness throughout human life and culture, and did not shy away from enquiry into the nature of morality, right and wrong, and good and bad. On the side of “good” they placed such values as happiness, health, survival, progeny, pleasure, calmness, friendship, knowledge and truth. The “bad” were, more or less, opposites or disvalues: misery, suffering, sickness, injury, death, barrenness, pain, anger, enmity, ignorance, error and untruth. These positive and negative qualities are universalized, in principle at least, for all sentient beings, for it was felt that the highest good is possible when the whole world can enjoy the good things that the cosmos has to offer. One term in classical Indian ethical discourse is perhaps the crucial one, and the closest Indian equivalent to the notion of ethics: “dharma”. This notion embodies the traditional pursuit of moral values and constitutes a distinctively essential aspect of Indian ethical culture. “Dharma” is semantically connected with the idea of ṛta, the underlying natural order in the Hindu belief system that connects individuals, society and the universe as a whole. This constitutes an overarching social, moral and natural order that must be maintained, and that relies on human compliance with respect to renouncing selfish desires and accepting individual responsibility. In this regard the self that is anchored in dharma is inexorably a “relational social self”.

In the second day on 18th February lecture theme was “Idea of M. K. Gandhi”. On that day our honourable speaker was Dr. Susmita Bhowmik, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, Diamond Harbour Women’s University. She has delivered her lecture on “Gandhi and Non-violence in Present Century”. She nicely explained the two basic principles or ideals that guided Gandhi’s life were truth and nonviolence. For him truth was God and realising this truth as God was the ultimate purpose of life. He expounded the proposition that truth could be realised only through nonviolence: “Truth is the end and nonviolence the means.” Gandhi gave his own definition and explanation of nonviolence which transcended conventional understanding of the concept. For Gandhi nonviolence was not a negative concept meaning non-injury or non-killing but a positive one which meant love in the sense of selfless service of one’s fellow beings which included the entire creation. The essence of his arguments is that one must try to practise nonviolence in thought word and deed and to organise all life activities on its basis, and that would bring in unprecedented and revolutionary changes in human life.

And, in the last day on 7th March lecture theme was “Message of Swami Vivekananda for young Society”. On that day we were extremely pleased to introduce Professor Pravrajika Vedarupaprana, She is Vice-Principal and Monastic Professor of Department of Philosophy at Ramkrishna Sarada Mission Vivekananda Vidyabhavan. Her deliberation was on “Vivekananda on Self-confidence”. It was a wonderful presentation. She explained the one central idea that comes to our mind when we think of Swami Vivekananda or read his powerful exhortations is Self-Confidence. According to Swami Vivekananda, “The history of the world is the history of a few men who had faith in themselves.” Self-Confidence is the key to the success of an individual in life. Without this strong faith in oneself, man becomes a helpless toy in the hands of the powerful winds of destiny and circumstances. What is true of individuals is also true of societies and nations. The self-confidence of a society and a nation is built on the basis of the shared memories of their collective achievements. This sense of pride in their achievements bonds them together with a feeling of national pride. A nation which does not take legitimate pride in its past achievements becomes rootless and weak.

One fact that the said lecture series have made good on its promise of morals and values in modern Indian society. All the learners of philosophy, students, research scholars and faculties enjoyed every bit of the lectures. Their active participation and interaction made the lectures more fruitful. We are confident that students and research scholars would derive due encouragement from this exposure and feel inspired to carry on exemplary careers in future in this field. We are very much thankful to ICPR for the financial support without which it was hardly possible to organize this lecture series.

Report of ICPR Sponsored Periodical Lecture on “Critical Thinking, Logic and Philosophy of Language”

Date: 30th March, 2021

An ICPR (Indian Council of Philosophical Research) sponsored online lecture series on “Critical Thinking, Logic and Philosophy of Language” organized by the Department of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Government College. It was held on 30th March, 2021 on virtual mode on Google Meet platform as well as on YouTube live streaming (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Tg5U7LoCCys>). The convenor was Smt. Pritha Paul, treasurer was Dr. Supriya Samanta and the secretary was Smt. Sucheta Mitra, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Govt. College. This virtual lectures was inaugurated by Swapan Sarkar, the Officer-in-Charge of P. R. Thakur Government college. And the inaugural session was ornamented by the presence of distinguished philosopher from academia, faculties of different Colleges and Universities, research scholars and a large number of enthusiastic students of both undergraduate and post graduate programme of social sciences and humanities, who are our future generation cognoscenti of Philosophy.

On 30th March, 2021, the OIC of P. R. Thakur Govt. College, started the first session with his inaugural speech. Here he had nicely described the theme. The inaugural session continued with a welcome speech by the coordinator of the program, Pritha Paul. She had lucidly explained the main theme and the titles of the two different lectures. While philosophy is often associated with abstract concepts and academic debates, it encourages critical thinking, self-reflection, and the examination of one’s beliefs and values, skills that are invaluable in the modern world.

It was our immense pleasure to introduce Professor Raghunath Ghosh as the first speaker of our first academic session. He is Ex-Emeritus Professor of Philosophy at North Bengal University. He delivered his lecture on “Philosophy as Critical Thinking”. He elaborately explained critical thinking is the process of using and assessing reasons to evaluate statements, assumptions, and arguments in ordinary situations. Critical thinking is widely regarded as a species of informal logic, although critical thinking makes use of some formal methods. In contrast with formal reasoning processes that are largely restricted to deductive methods—decision theory, logic, statistics—the process of critical thinking allows a wide range of reasoning methods, including formal and informal logic, linguistic analysis, experimental methods of the sciences, historical and textual methods, and philosophical methods. Although we've emphasized in this guide that critical thinking skills cannot be taught in isolation from subject matter, there is a great deal of critical thinking to be learned from a subject that studies thinking itself; namely, philosophy.

In the second session, our honourable speaker was Professor Madhumita Chattopadhyay of Jadavpur University. She is also coordinator of the Centre for Buddhist Studies, Jadavpur University. She has delivered her lecture on “Critical Thinking in Buddhism”. She nicely explained in Buddhism, there are five basic precepts that serve as a guide for life: no killing, no stealing, no sexual misconduct, no taking intoxicants, and no lying. These precepts guide Buddhists toward moral behaviour, and they run parallel with critical thinking and ethical decision making. The five precepts may sound simple, but there are many underlying morals and implications tied to them. This idea can be better understood by analysing one of the five-precepts.

One fact that the said lecture series have made good on its promise of “Critical Thinking, Logic and Philosophy of Language”. All the learners of philosophy, students, research scholars and faculties enjoyed every bit of the lectures. Their active participation and interaction made the lectures more fruitful. We are confident that students and research scholars would derive due encouragement from this exposure and feel inspired to carry on exemplary careers in future in this field. We are very much thankful to ICPR for the financial support without which it was hardly possible to organize this lecture series. The financial matter directly assisted by the ICPR, no monetary transaction was there with the college or the coordinator. The technical support was given by the Department of Computer Science of the college.

Report of Two-Day Online Periodical Lecture on “Philosophical Contribution of Contemporary Thinkers”

Date: 19-20 March, 2022

An ICPR (Indian Council of Philosophical Research) sponsored online lecture series on “Philosophical Contribution of Contemporary Thinkers” was organized by the Department of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Government College. It was held on 19th and 20th March, 2022 in online mode via Google Meet and YouTube live streaming (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=B8FbKbrP0zY>, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0vzgn5wXP1w>). The convenor of the program was Dr. Supriya Samanta, other members were Dr. Banani Barman, Smt. Sucheta Mitra and Smt. Pritha paul, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Govt. College. This online lecture series was inaugurated by Swapan Sarkar, the Officer-in-Charge of P. R. Thakur Government college. And the inaugural session was ornamented by the presence of distinguished professors of philosophy from various Colleges and Universities, research scholars and a large number of enthusiastic undergraduate and postgraduate students of social sciences and humanities.

On the first day of lecture series, i.e. on 19th March, 2022, the OIC of P. R. Thakur Govt. College, in his inaugural speech had nicely described the theme. The inaugural session was followed by a welcome address by the coordinator Dr. Supriya Samanta. Professor Pralayankar Bhattacharya of Calcutta University was the first speaker of this lecture series. His lecture entitled “Religion and Becoming Social: Swami Vivekananda” elaborated how Swami Vivekananda sought to establish a new Hindu identity under a program of national solidarity and upliftment.

In the second lecture on 19th March, 2022 Professor Dipayan Pattanayak of Jadavpur University, delivered a lecture on “Kalidas Bhattacharya: An Alternative Approach in Philosophy”. He nicely explained how Kalidas Bhattacharya established his alternative standpoints in philosophy through the idea of Anekānta Vedānta. The relation between Subjectivity and Absolute, however, should be of such a nature that each can admit the other only as a subordinate movement within itself.

In the last lecture on 20th March, 2022 we had Professor Atreyee Mukherjee of West Bengal State University talked on “Parfit on Personal Identity”. It was a wonderful presentation. She explained how Derek Parfit embarks on the idea of personal identity with the notion that if you believe in a soul, then it might be that you have the same soul as the person who got out of your bed. But we have limited scope in admitting a permanent soul. If we do not have souls, then it must be either physical continuity or psychological connectedness that makes us the same person.

Finally, the lecture series was successful in delineating important philosophical issues made by three contemporary thinkers from both Indian and Western philosophical tradition. All the participants enjoyed every bit of this lecture and their active participation indicated the academic success of this program. We are very much thankful to ICPR for the financial support without which it was hardly possible to organize this lecture series.

Anniversary”
Date: 04/03/2020
Venue: P.R Thakur Govt College, Thakurnagar

“Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi: A Reinterpretation on Sesquicentennial Birth Anniversary”

Introduction

The notion of the Indian nation until partition primarily evoked the image of “Mother”, but after independence as the so called mother got bifurcated into two separate entities, it became the need of the hour to rely upon the guardianship of a “Father” who could discipline the directionless, impoverished citizen of a newly independent country. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi became synonymous to the idea of the Indian nation, popularly referred to as the “Mahatma”, or “Bapu”.

Many world leaders enlist Gandhi as one of the most significant inspiration to them in terms of the ideas of peace, religious tolerance, leadership, amelioration of the downtrodden. Gandhi belongs to the rare category of philosophers who advocated his own theory by practicing, applying them on himself.

His ideals of peace, satyagraha, primary education, experiment on celibacy, non- violence, and wearing Khadi cloth have emerged as popular rhetoric of “Gandhigiri”. His policies like hungerstrike, passive political resistance are still used by the modern day protagonists of the world.

In India in recent time, Indian currency notes ensure the iconography of Gandhi is kept alive. However, gradual increase of the incidents like religious intolerance, violence against women, and violence against communities who are recognised by the government as downtrodden provokes worry about the future of the unity of nation and state.

Therefore, the need arises to academically examine Gandhian theory situating it in the post-globalised India. The question here arises wheather to explain and understand the current social pathology through Gandhian lens or is it time for an alternative epistemology beyond the ones provided by Gandhian theory.

Objectives of the seminar

- Educational Outreach: To educate students about . Gandhian Philosophy of Peace and Non-violence
- Gandhian ‘Satyagraha’
- Gandhi on Primary Education

Concept Note

The notion of the Indian nation into nation primarily evoked the image of "Mother" but after independence as the so called mother got bifurcated into two separate entities it became the need of the hour to look upon the pluralisation of a "Father" who could disprove the dichotomous, impoverished notion of a newly independent country. Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi became synonymous in the idea of the Indian nation, popularly referred to as the "Mahatma" or "Bapu". Many world leaders credit Gandhi as one of the most significant inspiration to them in terms of the ideas of peace, religious tolerance, leadership, amelioration of the downtrodden. Gandhi belongs to the rare category of personalities who advocate his own ideas by practicing applying them in himself. His ideas of peace, satyagrah, primary education, experiment in celibacy, non-violence and wearing khadi cloth have emerged as popular means of "Gandhianism". His policies like hunger strike, passive political resistance are still used by the modern day protagonists of the world. In India in recent time Indian currency notes feature the autobiography of Gandhi in art form. However, gradual increase of the industries like religious intolerance, violence against women, and violence against communities who are recognised by the government as "downtrodden" provokes worry about the future of the unity, nation and state. Therefore, the need arises to academically examine Gandhian theory remaining in in the postcolonial India. The question here arises whether to expand and understand the current social pathology through Gandhian lens or is it time for an alternative epistemology beyond the ones provided by Gandhian theory."

Detail Report of Webinar (2020

11th,13th,15th,17th July)

Interpretation of survival strategies of nature and human amidst pandemic/natural disaster

Introduction:

Since time immemorial, it is seen on this earth, homo sapience is negotiating with different circumstances for their sustenance. Even this strategic way of living is not always against nature but also to protect own life from the attack of same species. After fighting with each other by organizing two world wars, after 75 years have been facing the challenge thrown by virus Covid - 19. Again, human beings are executing different strategies to cope with this virus around the world. However, these tactics are diverse, varied based on their culture, natural settings, and influence of political policies. On the contrary diverse behavioral practices that are called “new normal” behaviour generating dent on environment. Natural disaster as Amphan and Nisarga amidst the debate of global warming have compelled us to breeding new policies, approaches towards different strata of society by human being and governmentality.

Therefore, through this webinar we would like to interpret these survival strategies by eminent scholars.

Objectives of the Webinar

1. Educational Outreach: to educate students about environment’s various aspects and how environment including animals, plants, and micro-organism are developing different survival strategies

Details structure and function of Covid -19

2.Research Promotion:

To promote research interest among students and scholars in the field of Pandemic and its impact on human society, public health, disease governance, climate change and its impact on human being, flora and fauna

3.Networking and Collaboration:

To foster collaborations among students, researchers, and professionals interested in Gandhian Studies

Benefits to Students

1.Enhanced Knowledge: Students gained a deeper understanding on resilience of human being of Sundarban area of India, how birds survived various diseases and natural calamities, structure and function of covid virus, philosophical insights of human nature and their actions during global crisis

2.Skill Development: this webinar helped students develop skills in selection of topic from the context where they have become part, skill of selection of data both primary and secondary

3.Networking Opportunities: Participants had the chance to network with experts and peers, fostering potential collaborations and mentorship opportunities.

4. Research Inspiration: The seminar inspired students to pursue further research in history of pandemic, impact of disease on society, environmental history, relationship between environment and human being, medical history etc.

Jointly organized webinar series to celebrate “3rd National Moth Week” (between 23rd to 31st July 2022)

Introduction

In response to the 3rd National Moth Week, which took place from July 23rd to July 31st, 2022, the Department of Zoology at P. R. Thakur Government College jointly organized a comprehensive webinar series. The event aimed to raise awareness about the significance of moths in ecosystems and their role in biodiversity. The following report outlines the objectives, activities, and benefits of this webinar series.

Objectives of the Webinar Series

The primary objectives of the webinar series were:

1. Educational Outreach: To educate students and the community about the importance of moths in the ecosystem, including their role in pollination, food webs, and indicator species for environmental health.
2. Research Promotion: To promote research interest among students and scholars in the field of entomology, particularly focusing on moths and their biology.
3. Conservation Awareness: To highlight the conservation challenges faced by moth populations due to habitat loss, pesticide use, and light pollution, and to discuss conservation strategies.
4. Networking and Collaboration: To foster collaborations among students, researchers, and professionals interested in moth conservation and study.

Activities and Sessions

The webinar series comprised a range of activities and sessions:

- Expert Talks: Renowned entomologists and researchers delivered talks on various aspects of moth biology, behaviour, and conservation.
- Workshops: Virtual practical workshop was conducted to teach participants about moth identification, sampling methods, and conservation techniques.
- Interactive Sessions: Question-and-answer sessions and discussions allowed participants to engage directly with experts and deepen their understanding.

Benefits to Students

The webinar series offered numerous benefits to students:

1. Enhanced Knowledge: Students gained a deeper understanding of moth biology, ecology, and conservation issues, which complemented their academic learning.
2. Skill Development: Virtual practical workshop helped students develop skills in moth identification, data collection, and research methodologies.
3. Networking Opportunities: Participants had the chance to network with experts and peers, fostering potential collaborations and mentorship opportunities.

4. Research Inspiration: The webinars inspired students to pursue further research in entomology and conservation biology, encouraging them to contribute to scientific knowledge and conservation efforts.

Conclusion

The webinar series jointly organized by the Department of Zoology at P. R. Thakur Government College to celebrate the 3rd National Moth Week was a resounding success, achieving its objectives of education, research promotion, and conservation awareness. The active participation and enthusiasm of students and experts alike ensured a fruitful exchange of knowledge and ideas, leaving a lasting impact on the understanding and appreciation of moths among attendees.

This webinar series not only contributed to academic enrichment but also served as a platform for fostering a community of conservation-minded individuals committed to protecting our natural heritage. It is hoped that such initiatives will continue to inspire future generations of students to engage in scientific inquiry and environmental stewardship.

Jointly organized webinar series to celebrate “2nd Big Frog Month” (between 1st to 31st August 2022)

Introduction

In honour of the 2nd Big Frog Month celebrated from August 1st to August 31st, 2022, the Department of Zoology at P. R. Thakur Government College jointly organized a webinar series aimed at promoting awareness about frogs and their ecological importance. This report details the objectives of the webinar series and highlights the benefits it provided to the participating students.

Objectives of the Webinar Series

The primary objectives of the webinar series were:

1. Educational Outreach: To educate students and the wider community about the significance of frogs in ecosystems, including their roles as indicators of environmental health, contributors to nutrient cycles, and controllers of pest populations.
2. Conservation Awareness: To raise awareness about the conservation challenges facing frog populations, such as habitat loss, pollution, road-kill and diseases like chytridiomycosis, and to discuss conservation strategies and initiatives.
3. Research Promotion: To stimulate interest among students and scholars in the field of herpetology, focusing on frog biology, behaviour, and conservation research.

Webinar Series Overview

The webinar series featured the following activities:

- Expert Talks: Renowned herpetologists and researchers delivered lectures on various topics related to frogs, covering their ecology, behaviour, diversity, conservation status, and threats.
- Discussions: Interactive discussions allowed participants to engage with experts and ask questions about frog conservation and research.
- Virtual Field Trips: Participants virtually explored frog habitats and conservation projects worldwide, providing insights into global efforts to protect amphibian species.
- Q&A Sessions: Dedicated question-and-answer sessions enabled participants to clarify doubts and deepen their understanding of frog-related issues.

Benefits to Students

Participating students derived several benefits from the webinar series:

1. Enhanced Knowledge: Students gained in-depth knowledge about frog biology, ecology, conservation challenges, and the importance of amphibians in ecosystems.
2. Skill Development: Webinars equipped students with skills in critical thinking, scientific communication, and understanding complex ecological concepts.

- Research Inspiration: The webinar series inspired students to explore research opportunities in herpetology and conservation biology, motivating them to contribute to frog conservation efforts.

Conclusion

The webinar series jointly organized by the Department of Zoology at P. R. Thakur Government College to celebrate the 2nd Big Frog Month was a successful educational initiative that achieved its objectives of promoting frog awareness and conservation. The active participation of students and experts facilitated meaningful discussions and knowledge exchange, fostering a deeper appreciation for amphibians and their ecological importance.

It is anticipated that the insights gained and connections made during this webinar series will inspire students to actively engage in frog conservation and pursue further studies and careers in herpetology. Such initiatives play a vital role in cultivating environmentally conscious individuals committed to the conservation of biodiversity.

Detailed report of seminars/ workshop (2018-2023)

Department of Geography

Number of Webinars/conferences/workshops conducted by the department of Geography during the last five years: 01

26/11/2022

Objective of the seminar

Remote sensing in geography is a method of collecting data at a larger distance about an object or location without making physical contact with it. In geographical applications, these larger distances typically involve space-borne remote sensing and aerial imaging systems. Space-borne remote sensing involves the use of sensors on satellites orbiting around the Earth. Aerial imaging systems involve the use of sensors on airplanes.

Benefits to Students

The webinar offered numerous benefits to students:

1. Enhanced Knowledge: 1. Personal Effectiveness Competencies - soft skills
 2. Academic Competencies - cognitive functions and thinking styles
 2. 3. Workplace Competencies - motives and traits, interpersonal and self-management styles
 3. 4. Industry-Wide Technical Competencies - cross-cutting knowledge, skills, and abilities needed by workers within the geospatial technology industry
 4. 5. Industry-Sector Technical Competencies - knowledge, skills, abilities and other characteristics that are specific to a specific segment in the geospatial technology industry.
 5. 6. Interdisciplinary perspective
 6. 7. Geographic and spatial reasoning and literacy
 7. 8. Critical thinking and problem solving skills
- 2. Skill Development: nano physics, usefulness of physical principles for a wide variety length scale

3. Networking Opportunities: Participants had the chance to network with experts and peers, fostering potential collaborations and mentorship opportunities.

4. Research Inspiration: students will get inspiration to do research on

1. Personal Effectiveness Competencies - soft skills

2. Academic Competencies - cognitive functions and thinking styles

3.Industry-Wide Technical Competencies - cross-cutting knowledge, skills, and abilities needed by workers within the geospatial technology industry

4.Industry-Sector Technical Competencies - knowledge, skills, abilities and other characteristics that are specific to a specific segment in the geospatial technology industry.

Detailed report of seminars/ workshop (2018-2023)

Awareness programme on consumer

Affairs

Seminar committee in collaboration with Thakur nagar chikanpara Prerana welfare society and Consumer Affairs Department, Govt. of WestBengal

And IQAC

Number of Webinars/conferences/workshops conducted by the department of Geography during the last five years: 01

Objectives:

Following the govt. of India's consumer affair department's initiatives to empower consumers like students and faculty members through awareness and education; enhance consumer protection and safety through progressive legislations and prevention of unfair trade practices; enable quality assurance through standards and their conformance; and ensure access to affordable and effective grievance redressal mechanisms.

Networking Opportunities: Participants had the chance to network with experts and peers, fostering potential collaborations and mentorship opportunities.

Benefits:

Consumer Awareness is an act of making sure the buyer or consumer is aware of the information about products, goods, services, and consumers rights. Consumer awareness is important so that buyer can take the right decision and make the right choice. Consumers have the right to information, right to choose, right to safety. Let us learn more about Consumer rights, responsibilities and consumer awareness in detail.

The consumer has a certain responsibility to carry as an aware consumer can bring changes in the society and would help other consumers to fight the unfair practice or be aware of it.

- They should be aware of their rights under the Consumer Protection Act and should practice the same in case of need.
- They should be well aware of the product they are buying. Should act as a cautious consumer while purchasing the product.
- If in case a product is found of anything false or not satisfactory a complaint should be filed.
- The consumer should ask for a Cash Memo while making a purchase.

- A customer should check for the standard marks that have been introduced for the authenticity of the quality of the product like ISI or Hallmark etc.

Report of Two-Day Online Periodical Lecture on “Philosophical Contribution of Contemporary Thinkers”

Date: 19-20 March, 2022

An ICPR (Indian Council of Philosophical Research) sponsored online lecture series on “Philosophical Contribution of Contemporary Thinkers” was organized by the Department of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Government College. It was held on 19th and 20th March, 2022 in online mode via Google Meet and YouTube live streaming (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=B8FbKbrP0zY>, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0vzgn5wXP1w>). The convenor of the program was Dr. Supriya Samanta, other members were Dr. Banani Barman, Smt. Sucheta Mitra and Smt. Pritha paul, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, P. R. Thakur Govt. College. This online lecture series was inaugurated by Swapan Sarkar, the Officer-in-Charge of P. R. Thakur Government college. And the inaugural session was ornamented by the presence of distinguished professors of philosophy from various Colleges and Universities, research scholars and a large number of enthusiastic undergraduate and postgraduate students of social sciences and humanities.

On the first day of lecture series, i.e. on 19th March, 2022, the OIC of P. R. Thakur Govt. College, in his inaugural speech had nicely described the theme. The inaugural session was followed by a welcome address by the coordinator Dr. Supriya Samanta. Professor Pralayankar Bhattacharya of Calcutta University was the first speaker of this lecture series. His lecture entitled “Religion and Becoming Social: Swami Vivekananda” elaborated how Swami Vivekananda sought to establish a new Hindu identity under a program of national solidarity and upliftment.

In the second lecture on 19th March, 2022 Professor Dipayan Pattanayak of Jadavpur University, delivered a lecture on “Kalidas Bhattacharya: An Alternative Approach in Philosophy”. He nicely explained how Kalidas Bhattacharya established his alternative standpoints in philosophy through the idea of Anekānta Vedānta. The relation between Subjectivity and Absolute, however, should be of such a nature that each can admit the other only as a subordinate movement within itself.

In the last lecture on 20th March, 2022 we had Professor Atreyee Mukherjee of West Bengal State University talked on “Parfit on Personal Identity”. It was a wonderful presentation. She explained how Derek Parfit embarks on the idea of personal identity with the notion that if you believe in a soul, then it might be that you have the same soul as the person who got out of your bed. But we have limited scope in admitting a permanent soul. If we do not have souls, then it must be either physical continuity or psychological connectedness that makes us the same person.

Finally, the lecture series was successful in delineating important philosophical issues made by three contemporary thinkers from both Indian and Western philosophical tradition. All the participants enjoyed every bit of this lecture and their active participation indicated the academic success of this program. We are very much thankful to ICPR for the financial support without which it was hardly possible to organize this lecture series.
